

TRAILS
SUPERSTITION WILDERNESS

There is a network of some 170 miles of “system” trails serving the Superstition Wilderness Area and contiguous areas. Their condition varies from satisfactory to very poor. All trails are closed to motor vehicles and mechanical transport such as bikes.

Use a great deal of caution when traveling on backcountry trails such as this one and be aware of the risks you assume.

A few brief comments are in order about the following trail:

Fire Line Trail 118: 3.6 miles long. Bulldozers fighting the Iron Burn of 1966 impacted this trail. Sections of this trail have serious erosion damage and the eastern section is very steep. It is not recommended for horses. Elevation: 4,400 - 5,480 feet. Termini: Trail 109, and Trail 213.

No more than 15 people are allowed to be in a group. No more than 15 head of livestock are allowed in a group.
